Happy Thanksgiving! Hope you had fun!
I'm doing a Right to Life speech tonight, then to the Shootout to watch Texas Tech beat Butler.
Or vice versa.

Have a good vacation time off.

Well shoot- I wish they'd have done that. The article made it sound like we only went part way with ethics reform as it pertains to lobbyists. Can you guys explain that to the reporter - that of couse admin expected apoc to request what they needed, as we would have supported their fiscal request.

Governor:

I met with the Commission about its budget and pointed out what Rachael says below: The Executive Director should have included money for training in the fiscal note for HB 109 - the ethics legislation. The December 10-12 APOC meeting, I'll be in ANC to meet with them again about their budget and to go over the efiling project.

And rachael had this to say:

they'd have training money had they added it to their fiscal note...

Ethics training lacks a final test
NEW LAW: Lobbyists simply say they've viewed presentation.

By KYLE HOPKINS, khopkins@adn.com

A new state law that makes lobbyists take ethics training is being carried out partly on the honor system.

Lobbyists who want to register to influence state politicians and decision-makers can choose to take the new ethics course online. There is no test.

Lobbyists simply print out a form promising they clicked through the roughly hourlong presentation, sign it and send it in.

Governor - Will do. This would be in addition to $5 million in the regular capital budget for ongoing maintenance. Karen Karen- please replace the Alegkagik bridge in the bond package with "Haul Road Improvements" (for North Slope natural gas improved access for gasline prospects). Thanks!
